Roads task force named

Group will study Hays County's options

By Brad Rollins
Staff Reporter

San Marcos — The members of Hays County's certain-to-be high-profile Transportation Advisory Committee have an expansive task ahead of them when they sit for their first briefing sometime next month.

With an immediate task of reassembling a new package of state and county roadwork for an election — starting with the remnants of a $173 million program voted down in May — the committee is also charged with developing a strategic plan for future transportation needs.

Sixteen of 20 voting positions — four each for County Judge Elizabeth Sumter and the four commissioners — were named at a regular commissioners court session this week.

Listed by their court sponsor, members are:

- Sumter: Raymond V. Kotowski of San Marcos, a former New London, Conn. and San Marcos city engineer and public works director and former San Marcos interim city manager, a West Point graduate who served in the Navy, Army and Air Force including time as a bomber pilot in a nuclear strike force; Michael P. Marcin of the Buda area, an environmental law and oil and gas attorney with specialties in natural resources and water, who lost the Democratic primary for a district judgeship last year; Stephen Klepfer, a Wimberley shop and gallery owner who has served as the village's mayor and the University of Texas aquatics athletic head coach; Kristin S. Carlton of Dripping Springs, a senior landscape inspector in Austin's watershed protection and development review department.
- Pct. 1 Commissioner Debbie Gonzales Ingalsbe: Ruben Garza of Kyle, the Southside Community Center director who previously was a state senator's legislative aide and a state Land Commission official; Constable Lupe Cruz, a former sheriff's deputy, corrections officer and community volunteer; Jim Neuhaus, a business owner who ran unsuccessfully for state representative last year and is a Vietnam veteran who helped develop thermal night vision for the Abrams tank; and Robert Gutierrez, a former Marine who is the San Marcos school district's maintenance and custodial department assistant director.
- Pct. 2 Commissioner Jeff Barton: Carter C. Scherff of Kyle, the Hays school district's chief financial officer with a background in forensic accounting; Diana Taylor Woods, the Umland city administrator; J. Jorge Anchondo of Buda, a former University of Texas senior research scientist who now owns a consulting firm, Anchondo Research Management & Strategies; Roman D. Grijalva of Kyle, a civil engineer who works as an Austin-based senior project manager for engineering firm LopezGarcia Group.
- Pct. 3 Commissioner Will Conely has not named his nominees.
- Pct. 4 Commissioner Karen Ford: J. Brian Dudley of the Dripping Springs area, a civil engineer who works for Cook-Joyce Inc. and formerly served as the Friendship Alliance president; Gary Knight of Driftwood, a former maritime law professor who currently runs Jonathan Publishing House, which specializes in printing federal regulation registers; Scott Roberts of the Driftwood area, a former Austin planning commission chair who now owns and operates his family's famous barbecue joint, The Salt Lick; Susan Pantell of the Dripping Springs area, a Berkeley Ph.D. in energy and resources whose work includes stints as a research analyst and Indian reservation environmental department director.
